

Air Cargo China

The sky is the limit

China is considered a key market for the transport and logistics industry—especially in the air-cargo sector. After all, the country with the largest population on Earth is one of the most important growth markets in the world. On the one hand, air-cargo traffic is increasing, and on the other, the optimisation potential that this sector has to offer is far from being exhausted. From a strategic point of view, now is the perfect time to gain a foothold in this market and build on existing contacts. Take advantage of this unique opportunity.
